Perspectives on Research in Mathematics Education in the next Decade

We would like to invite young researchers (Master-students, PhD-students and post-doctoral students) in the field of mathematics education to participate in our upcoming Spring School "Perspectives on Research in Mathematics Education in the next Decade". The Spring School will bring together young researchers and acknowledged experts to discuss perspectives on and upcoming fields of interest in the learning and teaching of mathematics. The intent of the school is to allow young researchers from different countries to

- compare different research methods and approaches in advance of their own study;
- present their research projects, problems and preliminary results to and discuss them with an audience of fellow researchers and highly qualified experts;
- connect with international fellow researchers from the community, exchange opinions and ideas about the work of other researchers and to lay the foundations for a future cooperation in the field of mathematics education.

Invited speakers are:

- Celia Hoyles (UCL Institute of Education, University College London, UK)
- Marta Menghini (Dipartimento di Matematica, Sapienza Università di Roma, Italy):
- Mogens Niss (University of Roskilde, Denmark)
- Richard Noss (UCL Institute of Education, University College London, UK)
